Europe's Leading Forum for Sleep Surgery Innovation

Dear Colleagues,

As the Chair of the Scientific Board and together with Prof. Dr. Thomas Penzel, scientific head of the Interdisciplinary Sleep Medicine Center at the Charité in Berlin, our host, and all faculty colleagues, it's our great honour and pleasure to invite you to participate at the 4th European Sleep Surgery Academy (ESSA) in Berlin, Germany, October 7th – 9th, 2027.

4th ESSA represents an important milestone in advancing European and international collaboration in the field of ENT, sleep surgery and dental sleep medicine. During the course a distinguished faculty of global leaders will share their expertise, scientific insights, and innovative approaches that are shaping the future of sleep-related healthcare and the multidisciplinary care for patients with obstructive sleep apnoea (OSA).

4th ESSA will convene more than 200 world-class specialists — including ENT surgeons, dentists, maxillofacial surgeons, bioengineers, researchers, and AI developers — for an intensive three-day program dedicated to the latest advancements in sleep surgery.

As participant, you will gain direct access to an international network of key opinion leaders and decision-makers. Our interdisciplinary keynote lectures, panel discussions, and exclusive hands-on training sessions provide the perfect environment to learn about the contemporary and future technologies and to practice "hands-on" specific surgery procedures.

Berlin, a city renowned for its scientific excellence, creativity, and cultural diversity, provides the ideal setting for meaningful exchange, inspiring discussions, and lasting professional connections. 4th ESSA will offer a unique platform to learn about AI advancement of ENT, sleep surgery and dental sleep medicine.

Therefore, we cordially invite you to join 4th ESSA and look forward to welcoming you personally in Berlin — and to shaping together the future and to be a part of a conference experience that reflects scientific excellence and interdisciplinary progress.

Catch the spirit — join 4th ESSA in Berlin!

With warm regards,

CONGRESS PRESIDENT

Prof. Dr. Olivier Vanderveken

MD PhD — Head of Dep. ENT-HNS,

Your Conference Location

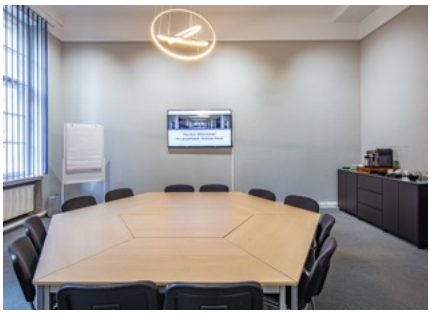

The Langenbeck-Virchow House

The Langenbeck-Virchow-Haus is one of Germany's most historic and prestigious medical conference venues. Built in the early 20th century, it served for decades as an important meeting place for leading physicians and scientific societies, significantly shaping the development of modern surgery and medicine. Today, the building combines its distinguished scientific heritage with state-of-the-art congress infrastructure.

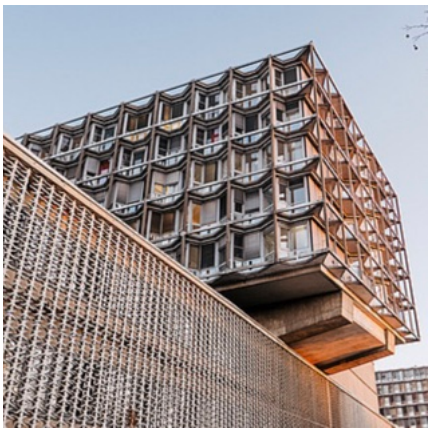

As an established conference center, the Langenbeck-Virchow-Haus offers versatile facilities for medical and scientific education, symposia, and international professional congresses. Flexible room concepts, advanced media technology, and generous exhibition areas for industry partners, sponsors, and medical exhibitors provide ideal conditions for high-class international interdisciplinary exchange and innovative educational formats.

The Charité

Charité — Universitätsmedizin Berlin is one of Europe's most renowned and influential academic medical institutions, with a history spanning more than three centuries. Founded in 1710, the Charité has played a defining role in the advancement of modern medicine, clinical research, and scientific education. Its legacy is closely associated with pioneering physicians and Nobel Prize laureates whose discoveries transformed global healthcare.

Today, it is recognized worldwide as a leading center for interdisciplinary medicine, biomedical research, and medical innovation. With its outstanding clinical expertise and global scientific collaborations, the Charité continues to shape the future of healthcare — its name remaining synonymous with academic excellence, pioneering spirit, and internationally respected medical leadership.

Experience Berlin

The vibrant Metropole

Only few cities in the world combine history, innovation, creativity, and vibrant human diversity as naturally as Berlin. Germany's capital is a place where the past and the future exist side by side — a city shaped by remarkable historical transformation and driven by an inspiring spirit of openness and progress.

◆ BRANDENBURG GATE

◆ MUSEUM ISLAND

Berlin is internationally celebrated for its unique cultural energy. World-famous museums, concert halls, theaters, and galleries create an atmosphere in which art is not only preserved, but continuously reinvented. From classical masperpieces on Museum Island to contemporary urban art and avant-garde design, the city offers endless inspiration for visitors from all backgrounds.

At the same time, Berlin stands as one of Europe's most important centers of medicine and scientific excellence. Institutions such as Charité — Universitätsmedizin Berlin have shaped modern medicine for centuries and continue to lead groundbreaking research, education, and international collaboration today. The city's academic and medical environment attracts physicians, researchers, and innovators from around the globe.

◆ CHARITÉ — UNIVERSITÄTSMEDIZIN

◆ A COSMOPOLITAN CAPITAL

Berlin's multicultural character is equally defining. People from more than 180 nations contribute to a cosmopolitan atmosphere marked by tolerance, curiosity, and international exchange. This diversity is reflected in the city's languages, cuisine, festivals, music, and daily life, creating an environment that feels dynamic, welcoming, and constantly alive.

Beyond its historical landmarks and intellectual achievements, Berlin radiates a distinctive sense of freedom and joie de vivre. Spacious parks, lively cafés, riverside gatherings, music venues, and creative neighborhoods invite people to connect, celebrate ideas, and enjoy life with remarkable openness and authenticity.

◆ TIERGARTEN & CITY LIFE

Berlin is not simply a destination — it is an experience of culture, humanity, innovation, and inspiration.
